

Forty Stories Forty Years

In 1975, a group of passionate parents fought to open doors for their children. Gateway Association emerged as the "Gateway to a better life" they envisioned for people with disabilities and their families.

We spent a year collecting 40 stories from 40 of our families.

What we have learned, about the families we support, about our community, and about Gateway's place in the Education area's historical landscape, is profoundly impactful.

These are the voices of our community — of parents who worked with Education's school boards to ensure children with disabilities in classrooms of the future who were locked for alternative ways for all children to be included in communities of families. These are the voices that inspire and give hope to those who face barriers today.

These are their powerful stories...
